Quarter Auction

How to play:

- 1) The auctioneer will describe the auction item and the number of quarters you will need to bid per paddle on the item.
- 2) Bid placing the quarters into the container on your table and hold up your paddle to indicate that you bid. If you would like to bid on the item with more than one paddle, you must place a bid for each paddle you would like to play. For Example: if you would like to use two paddles for a .25 bid (1 quarter), you would place .50 (2 quarters) in to play these two paddles.
- 3) When all bids are collected from the tables, the auctioneer will draw a numbered chip. The paddle with the corresponding number is the winner.
- 4) Once a winner has been declared, all chips will be placed back in the bucket and the auctioneer will move on to the next item to be auctioned.

Cashier will be on hand with quarters to exchange.

If the number drawn is for someone who did NOT bid, call "No Bid". A new number will be pulled. If there are 3 "No Bids" in a row, the number closest to the number drawn without going over, wins the item.

If there are items you are really interested in, buy additional paddles to increase your chances of winning. However, only the numbers on the paddles you hold up are eligible for that item. If you bought 3 paddles as you entered and subsequently used 2 of them to bid on an item, if the number called out is for your third paddle, then you wouldn't win that item and the auctioneer will draw a new number.

There will be a brief intermission halfway through the items. This will allow you time to replenish quarters, restroom break and refreshments.
